Different type of heroine and hero

By Anime, Manga and Harlequin Romance Girl

From the back cover:

Nothing could stop her from loving him!

Danny breached the complex security system at the Sutherland estate and sent the new owner into a tailspin. Yet once she got to know the deeply passionate man behind the wall of suspicion, she realized that to Pierce Sutherland, seclusion was more than a haven. It had become a self-imposed prison.

"Only a fool takes chances;" Pierce warned. But no matter what forces had shaped him, Danny's heart refused to be ruled by threats. She knew that falling in love held risks.

She'd never been fainthearted before--and wasn't about to start no

My thoughts: I was so-so on this book because I didn't really like the hero or heroine. Just a personal preference I guess. The heroine was just too straightforward and frank and seemingly "strong" than the other heroines I'm used to. Her occupation was as a gardener was also a little too much for me to take. I can't believe that with her personality she just become a gardener. (Yeah, yeah, I know she came from a long pure line of gardeners) I mean, nothing bad on the heroine, she is pretty strong and tough, but I wasn't used to it. As for the hero, he seems a little too out there also. So he's not really my most favorite hero. However he did have a VERY good reason for being the way he is. Actually now that I think about it, it does make sense that the heroine had to be WAY tough to deal with the hero. The story was alright and revealed the turmoil and tragedy for the hero but because I wasn't too fond of either them it was just OK to me.
