but the information is great. It just screams bias

By Godzirra

This definitely needs a bit of plain editing, but the information is great. It just screams bias. Of course it would be but you don't want (in an academic setting) to present it in such a tone. It's then less convincing to the opposing researchers. I actually agree with the authors' stance but again, they present it in such a bias sway one recognizes that immediately. I don't feel great to use it as the greatest academic resource to divert or change the opposing side. Hower, again, good valid info overall.
